

May lose farm

Evansburg man hit by string of bad luck

By Frank Ryan

It's been a rough two years for Evansburg area farmer Dwayne Bartley and his family.

Back-to-back serious injuries have forced him to miss months of work, has used up his bank account and the future of his farm is up in the air.

Unfortunately, Bartley can do little about all this.

He is currently a patient in the Drayton Valley Hospital, where he will be until mid-August.

While Bartley faces another six weeks in hospital on his back and in traction, his neighbors want to help. The Hollysprings Community League are sponsoring a benefit dance and potluck supper (starting at 6 pm) on Saturday, July 13 at the Hollysprings Hall. All the proceeds, through donations, will go to Dwayne and Bev Bartley and their two children.

Bartley's problems started about two years ago when an old wrist injury acted up. A bone graft was required and the problem, which was expected to heal in two to four months, resulted in the County of Parkland employee being fitted with a cast for 18 months. During this time he was off work and didn't have a lot of money.

"We managed to get by with the wife working. We also had to sell some of our cattle," Bartley says.

The cast came off in May. Because of the injury, Bartley couldn't run equipment anymore so the county moved him into their maintenance shop in Drayton Valley. He was back to work just six days, when his lifestyle was shattered again.

"A neighbor wanted to move some cattle so I went over. I was riding a green horse. He got excited and threw me off," Bartley explained.

"I landed on my hip. I broke and cracked my pelvis in 15 places," Bartley described the damages.

During the past month Bartley has been moved from the hospital in Drayton Valley to Edmonton and back to Drayton Valley where he faces weeks of rest. His schedule includes five weeks of traction and laying on his back. After that it's another four weeks of bed rest. If everything goes right, he could be going home in mid-August.

Financially, an insurance plan through the County of Parkland helped the Bartleys through the wrist injury. But there's no insurance and our bank account is wiped clean through this latest incident," Bartley admits.

"I've never missed a payment in my life on the farm and I can only hope my banker will understand," Bartley says.

"I didn't believe in God, my days in hospital would be tough," the Evansburg farmer says.

Some of his prayers have already been answered.

"Several of the fellows from the Entwistle Community Church put up a half-mile of fence and while I've been in hospital George and John Webster have cared for the farm," Bartley says.

Bartley, who is a member of the board at the Entwistle Community Church is also thankful for all his friends who have visited him, and made the time pass. A phone at his bedside has also kept him close to his family.

Bartley, whose life is limited to lying in bed, is glad to be in the Drayton Valley hospital. "This is an amazing hospital for the size of the town," he explained.

For those planning to attend the benefit dance and potluck supper, the Hollysprings Community Hall is located five miles north and a mile west on Highway 22 (off Highway 16).

Anyone who would like to help the Bartleys is asked to call George Webster at 727-2042.

Oilers win tourney

The final was played Wednesday night in Sylvan Lake after the weekend game was called due to weather. Earlier the Anxox team had beaten Lacombe 20-1, Blackfalds 39-1 and Rocky 19-0 to advance.

They played the host team in the final and won 19-4 after only four innings.

The first four batters up made it home with Mark Waldron capping off the runs with a home run.

Report to council Structural problems at arena

A 40-page report on the problems at the Centennial Civic Arena had Drayton Valley councillors shaking their heads last Thursday.

The report, which many councillors hadn't the time to read, included some new problems at the 18-year-old facility.

Besides inadequate washrooms, problems with the public address system, the puck boards and the cement pad, council was told of foundation and structural problems.

No mention was made of money.

However, town manager Manny Deol did say during the four-hour council meeting that the $98,450 available through the community recreation cultural grant won't be enough.

Board votes to go ahead

The hospital board for the Drayton Valley and District Health Complex has voted to go ahead with construction of a three-bay garage.

Jim Jansen, executive director of the hospital, said the board has okayed a plan to build the $42,000 facility to house the grounds equipment and the handi-bus they have on order.

The project, which should take about two months from start to finish should begin in mid July, "or whenever all the necessary paperwork is in place," commented Jansen.

When acting deputy mayor Charlie Miner asked about the costs, Councillors Bill Panice and Howard Olsen just shook their heads and said "you don't want to know."

The report will likely be discussed when council meet July 18.

ERCB's Ron Paulson promoted to Calgary

Ron Paulson leaving.

Bennefield

New rec director

Calvin Bennefield is Drayton Valley's new recreation director.

The appointment, from a list of 30 applicants, was ratified by town council last Thursday.

Bennefield, who was the town's facility manager, replaces Dennis Woolsey who was released by the town on April 29.

According to town manager Manny Deol, someone on staff will be promoted to fill the facility manager's position.

In conjunction with Bennefield's appointment, council authorized a change in title for Kathy Palmer. She has been promoted from executive secretary to recreation coordinator.

Both the appointment of Bennefield and Palmer's title change will result in an unspecified salary change.

The ERCB's area supervisor is leaving town. Ron Paulson, who has been in the position for three years, has been transferred to the ERCB's Calgary office.

Paulson has been in Drayton Valley four years and originally came here as assistant area supervisor.

His new position in Calgary is staff supervisor of the well licensing section, and Paulson is looking forward to the new job.

"We have really enjoyed Drayton Valley and we'll miss the community but we're looking forward to relocating to Calgary, we have friends and family there," Paulson said.

The "career move" for Paulson is bringing a lot of opportunity for his family. His wife Donna is in the accounting business and the move will give her the chance to pursue this field further. Paulson also has two daughters, Sarah is seven and Jodi is four.

This isn't the first time they have had to move. Paulson began working for the ERCB more than 18 years ago and since then has been in Medicine Hat, Calgary, Red Deer and Wainwright before coming to Drayton Valley.

But he says he hasn't minded the moving.

"I see the differences of oil and gas production in various parts of the province," he adds.

But working with the ERCB is only part of what he has done while in Drayton Valley. Paulson also coached minor hockey for one year and minor soccer for two years. He was involved in curling and served on the United Church board and his wife Donna is an active member of the local ladies' golf club.

Paulson says he is happy about the move to Calgary despite leaving behind a community he likes.

"I'm optimistic about it," he points out.

He will leave the Drayton Valley office on July 5 to assume his new position.

The ERCB will make the announcement on a new area supervisor shortly.

Opinions

Reporters take their jobs seriously, but do others?

Our reporters take their jobs seriously. They work long hours, usually at night and on weekends, supplying coverage to local and area events.

It's a job they take pride in. Always striving to do the best for the groups they are assigned to cover.

But a reporter's life has its frustrating side as newcomer Lorne Christensen is finding out.

Christensen, who joined The Western Review two months ago, handles most of our sports coverage. He spends hours on the phone tracking down scores. His sense of pride comes every Wednesday when he knows that he's done his part to get all the scores from games played that week into the sports' pages.

But, despite his efforts and the efforts of others at the paper, the eight-team Evergreen Men's Fastball League just don't seem to care about publicity.

It's a league loaded with exceptional players. It's a league where sponsors give money for a team to buy uniforms and equipment, and often their only reward is their name in the local paper.

But for whatever the reason, the league management won't give us anything but the weekly scores. And, as we found out last week, are incorrect.

Unknown to us, Lodgepole dropped out of the league. But still, the league, in their weekly scores, reported Lodgepole losing by identical scores of 7-0.

When Christensen approached the league president last week for a report on their upcoming playoff tournament, a joke was made about Lodgepole scores.

No one's laughing Mr. President.

Is this any way to treat a sports reporter who was just trying to do his job?

It's about time the sponsors who are paying the bills let the teams and the league know that they would like some of the 'ink' that's available for the asking.

Big bouquet

Organizing committee deserves praise for efforts

A BIG BOUQUET to Jean Chaney, Brenda and Danny Thompson, Shirley Urchyshyn, Gloria Wallace, Karen Mohn, Pat Bouchard, Doug Ibbitson, Judy Karach and Cindy Brooks for the super effort they did in organizing the Frank Maddock High School 25th reunion last weekend.

True, others helped, but these 10 people gave countless hours of their own time and did most of the worrying.

They were also good sports in letting us use some old school pictures with last week's reunion story.

We had the opportunity of attending some of their meetings down the homestretch and enjoyed their friendship. It was fun, even our meeting last week when we stuffed pens, buttons and matches into the registration kits.

Thanks for the banquet invitations extended to my wife and myself. Your thoughtfulness is appreciated.

A special thanks also goes out to the

Editor's Notes

Wishing Well Social Club. They also extended an invitation for supper to my wife on the occasion of their new propane barbecue.

So often a reporter or editor goes out to cover an event, leaving the wife at home. It's appreciated when I can take my wife along.

Thanks again to all our new friends at the Wishing Well. And to Betty Starling who invited us to dinner.

One individual who worked behind the scenes to keep the '86 senior games in Drayton Valley was MLA Shirley Cripps. She held a last-ditch meeting with members of council and the games' committee. But they had already made up their mind.

You also have to wonder about council. When Les Bannerman made his presentation to council last Thursday, ONLY deputy mayor Charlie Miner had anything to say. Why didn't the other councillors speak on the issue????

Charlene Jenkins, manager at the Park Valley swimming pool, is out drumming up business.

She has printed up copies of the July/August swim schedule and taken it to the hotels in town. Great idea.

THE POP MACHINE IS GONE FROM THE PARK VALLEY POOL. Earlier, town council removed the chocolate bar machine. Also gone is the opportunity to make $10,000 a year from these two vending machines.

The $10,000 may have come in handy for some of the repairs still needed at the pool.

Lodge resident dies

By Edith Deby
Mrs. Florence Wiedemann died here on June 24, surviving her husband by only two months.

The Wiedemanns were long time residents of the Tomahawk district who moved recently to the Shangri-La Lodge.

They are survived by two sons.

The Clellands and Mrs. Alice Haggerty have their children and grandchildren, the Terry Clellands, here for a month-long visit. Terry and Sharon live on the Persian Gulf in a city called Dubai in the United Arab Emirates.

Mrs. Haggerty tells us that with the use of fertilizer and water the barren waste of sand can literally be made to blossom like a rose.

Ideal spot

Old pool to be converted into multi-use facility

The old swimming pool building in Drayton Valley will be converted into a multi-purpose facility.

Council reached that decision last week after hearing from two delegations.

The Drayton Valley Preschool Society and the pottery club appeared before council last Thursday, requesting space in the old pool building.

Kathy Flynn, president of the Preschool Society told council "the old pool building is an ideal spot for us."

"We would only need the building for two hours in the morning and two hours in the afternoon," she stated.

"The building would handle our registration and anticipated increases and the children would be able to use the adjoining park," Flynn added.

As an extra, Flynn said her group would be prepared to move the playground equipment from their present site near the Elks Hall to Rotary Park for everyone to use.

"We want to cooperate with other groups who may wish to use the building," she added.

Val Tucker, speaking on behalf of the Drayton Valley Pottery Club told council, "The old pool building is in a central location. Seniors and children would be able to get there easier."

At the present time the pottery club meets in the basement of the County of Parkland building, but a request to add another structure to house a gas kiln has been turned down by the county.

The pottery club would only require half of the pool building with their kiln to be located in the boiler room area. The Preschool Society told the town they needed two classrooms.

Exactly who will occupy the building once the renovations are completed hasn't been determined.

But town council feels there's a definite need for the space. The Park Valley pool, which is just a stone's throw away, is also expected to make use of the multi-purpose facility for training and meetings.

Renovations to the old pool building are expected to cost between $40,000 and $50,000. The money will come from the swimming pool budget.

Tank to be playground

The old swimming pool tank in Drayton Valley will be turned into a playground.

Council decided last week to proceed with plans for a creative playground concept in the old pool area and clean up the adjoining deck. The playground equipment is expected to cost about $15,000 with the decking to run as high as $20,000.

The town has been talking about turning the old outdoor pool tank into a playground for some time. But it may have been comments by Councillor Bill Paniec that started the ball rolling.

"The old tank is dangerous. It's disgusting. Let's do something before someone gets hurt," Paniec told his fellow councillors last week.

Volker Stevin Construction of Edmonton have the contract for the water installation along 50th Avenue in Drayton Valley. Work started this past week near the cemetery and before the job is completed in three months, a new water and sewer line (to be joined in at the highway) will end at Amoco corner west of town. The sewer line project is underway near the old lagoon.

Awards for soccer kids

The curtain came down on a very successful minor soccer season in Drayton Valley last Tuesday night.

All 156 youngsters who participated in the program this season were involved in the final games as the season ended.

Following the games at McKenzie Park, St. Anthony's and Frank Maddock fields, awards were presented to every player and a hot dog/pop windup was held at the high school field.

The parents who turned out for the final games and the presentation of trophies to every player, applauded the work of league president Simon Kelly, vice-president Bill Boos, secretary Bill Farrell and all the coaches.

Kelly is already thinking about next season. "I'd like to see more kids playing. We will also look at establishing all-star teams in each category and joining the Alberta Association," Kelly remarked.

"The kids are getting better, and by joining the provincial association our kids will get the competition they need," Kelly added.

Kelly doesn't have any goals as to how many kids he'd like to see in the program next year. When minor soccer started in 1980 about 100 kids played.

That grew to 156 this past season. "As long as there's more, I'd be happy," Kelly said.

Summer is quickly approaching and so is the start of summer programs at Park Valley Pool.

Don't miss the boat! Session 1 classes are almost full. There are still openings in sessions 2, 3 and 4. In person registrations are currently being accepted at the pool during all hours of operation.

If you are interested in specialty classes such as canoeing, kayaking, synchronized swimming or small craft safety survival, we are offering these programs throughout the summer.

Summer fit cards can be purchased anytime. Fit cards can be used for any of the aquatic classes offered throughout the summer. The cost for these cards is $24 for 10 workouts.

Please note that if you received a copy of the summer brochure or summer schedule, there have been a few corrections made. Adapted schedules can be picked up from the pool cashier.

Our swimmer of the week is Eliza Westlake who is visiting relatives from Vancouver, B.C. Mrs. Westlake has been taking private lessons from Terrie Bannard, and has learned to swim after only five sessions. Congratulations for the pool staff!

June marks the end of another school year and to the end of the school learn-to-swim program. Congratulations to all students from Drayton Valley, Parkland County, County of Leduc and County of Westaskin who participated in our Red Cross lessons.

For more information on these and other programs please call 542-5749.

Depends on seasons

The Rig offers everything from playing pool to saunas

By Lorne Christensen

There is a rig in the town of Drayton Valley. But this rig is different from the others. It has video games, pool tables, a weight room, a racquetball court and a sauna.

The Rig, in the Derrick Mall, is owned by Emil LaBranche.

LaBranche, who has been running The Rig for seven years, says his business "depends on the seasons."

"This time of year my pool is down," he says adding that if the weather is bad the eight billiard tables fill up.

But The Rig has more than just billiards to offer. The weight room and exercise room in the back is another big drawing card.

LaBranche plans to "improve" the equipment in the near future and possibly get an instructor to come in and teach exercise classes.

In addition to this there is also a racquetball or squash court, depending on which you prefer, and a sauna.

But one of the most popular features at The Rig is the 35 video games, where you can do anything from challenging your pinball skills to fighting alien spaceships.

Added to this The Rig also serves hot lunches and sandwiches which brings in a lot of school kids.

"The kids come down and eat," LaBranche pointed out.

Another feature that attracts people is the "Happy Hour pool" from 4 to 7 p.m. when you can sharpen your game for half-price. LaBranche says a lot of women take advantage of the afternoon time on the pool tables.

LaBranche, whose wife Nevis is the former mayor of Drayton Valley, rented the building and put everything in it.

"I designed it," he added.

The Rig closes around 11 p.m. every night.

LaBranche explained this is because when they were open to 12 or one in the morning a lot of guys from the bar would come and cause trouble.

But despite some problems like this in the past the people continue to frequent The Rig, especially the school kids at noon.

"I'm pretty strict with them (the kids) and I lose some of them," LaBranche said.

Hawks get bye

The Blackhawks lived up to their regular season billing in the first round of ball hockey playoffs.

After finishing first during the regular schedule they beat the last place Flyers 6-4 Tuesday and then clobbered them 15-1 Wednesday to take the two game total point

Grey met the Oilers in the first round and beat them 9-3 on Tuesday and 9-4 on Wednesday to advance.

Grey will meet the Redskins in the next round. The Redskins beat the Rowdies 4-1 Tuesday and 7-5 on Wednesday to take their two-game series.

The Blackhawks get a bye into the final round and will play the winner of the Redskin and Grey series.

Council may form

The Town of Drayton Valley is looking at forming a sports council.

Representatives from service clubs, town council and the recreation board are being invited to an organizational meeting tomorrow (Thursday) at 4 p.m. in the basement meeting room at the town office. The feasibility of forming a sports council will be discussed at this time.

According to a letter sent to the service clubs by town manager Manny Deol, the purpose of a sports council would be to screen and handle the distribution of project funds to community groups.

The matter of funding for the sports council will also be discussed at the meeting.

League finals

The Evergreen Football League will wind up their season this weekend.

The seven teams remaining in the league will begin playoffs on July 6 and July 7.

The top four teams will play a double knockout tournament with the bottom three playing a round robin tournament.

The Den-Co Trees are the defending champions and they lead the league this year.

Frank Cunningham, Rollerblades marketing director.

Oiler backed product rolls along

By Lorne Christensen

They look like ice skates and they feel like ice skates.

But they are different in one way. Instead of a blade they have wheels.

They are called rollerblades and are being marketed by an Edmonton firm in Western Canada.

Rollerblade Canada was formed in January and one of the five partners in the venture is Randy Gregg, a defenceman with the Edmonton Oilers.

Representatives from the firm were in Drayton Valley last week to promote their product which is being sold through Rick's Sporting Goods.

The blades can be put on a regular hockey skate boot or bought with their own boot. In terms of markets they can be used by hockey players, figure skaters, speed skaters, cross-country skiers, downhill skiers, and biathletes to train in the summer months.

According to Tim Young, one of the partners in the firm, the skates are becoming very popular. Young said they are being marketed in the United States by another firm and they are just now beginning to sell here.

He pointed out that 14 of the Edmonton Oilers endorse the product which has really helped their sales in Canada, in addition to the more than 100 NHL players that have purchased the blades.

But besides having the Stanley Cup champions on their side the company has also been pushing their products at trade shows.

Other markets the company hopes to get into include schools in general and specifically hockey schools.

The roller blades can be used on "anything that is dry and hard" Young said.

"The stride is the same and you work the same muscles as in ice skating," Young explained.

The product sells for about $120 for both blade and boot and $75 for just the blades.

Locals go to camp

Two local hockey players will be participating in summer development camps.

Darren Fedorous, a bantam, and David Hakstol, a midjet, will be going to the camps in July.

Fedorous, with the Drayton Valley Norsette Oilers, will go from July 7 to 14 to the University of Alberta (U of A) for his camp.

Then from July 14 to 21 Hakstol, from the Warburg Mustangs, will go to the midjet camp at the U of A.

The annual development camps emphasize improvement of individual skills and each player is invited to the camp.

For the bantams there will be 104 participants while 93 will lace up the skates in midjet camp.

For the midjet players involved the camp will also provide instruction on leadership and personal development skills.

THANK YOU!

On behalf of the Neptune Swim Club I would like to take this opportunity to thank the Legion for their support over the past two years. Last year they generously helped out our club by helping to purchase matching swim suits for the club. And this year they have given our club a cash donation to help pay for our pool time, so we are able to keep the price of our entry fee within reach of the swimmers. Our overhead is fairly high and without their help we would have been forced to increase our fees out of reach of some of our swimmers.

We thank them for their generous works.

Yours Truly,
Ray Oscar

Shimbashi wins

McMorris wins junior tournament

Whitecourt's Mike McMorris shot a 71 to win the Junior Open at the Drayton Valley golf course last weekend.

McMorris' score was good enough to beat Blair Shimbashi who won the low gross award.

In the first flight the winner was Craig Warren, Kevin Sandquist won the second flight and Chris Mallett won the third flight.

The fourth flight winner was Chris

Bullock, Dave Anderson won the fifth, Kevin Carefoot took the sixth and Jason Swarren won the seventh flight. Desi Parenteau was the winner in the eighth flight while Guy Mastro took the ninth and Brent Layden won the tenth flight. Rocky Thronson won his flight while Gina Hesselbarth won the girls flight.

About 50 golfers took part in the annual event.

Blair Shimbashi receives his trophy.

Your Continued Patronage will be Appreciated.

OIL NOTES

Royalty reaction

Local oil companies are reacting favorably to the recently announced royalty policy. Amoco, one of the larger companies in the area, said they were still analysing the announcement.

"Overall the announcement is positive," Don Smith the public affairs manager of Amoco said from his Calgary office.

"With respect to our activity in the Drayton Valley area the announcement ensures that we are going to be quite busy," Smith added.

Don Kallis, from Enbridge said they are still "evaluating" the announcement.

Dwight Campbell, from Mobile, said the royalty reduction was excellent for the oil companies.

The new drilling incentive policy will cost the province $420 million a year and the government hopes the new policy will increase activity in the field.

New water line

Mobile Oil is installing a new pipeline just southwest of town.

The line to carry water runs for about 2,200 metres and is being put in by Theorem Projects Ltd. of Drayton Valley.

Albert Tink from Mobile said the line is one of about seven or eight they install a year.

Frost joins ERCB

The ERCB has another new face, this time it's Bernie Frost.

Frost, who grew up in Drayton Valley, has taken on the job as pipeline inspector for the ERCB.

He had worked the last 14 years with Ipso in Edmonton.

Frost started with the ERCB last week after working as a contract operator for Mobile since last August.

Frost and his wife Diane have three children and are now living in Drayton Valley.

July 13

Amoco's annual raft race

The rafts will be hitting the water in the 16th annual Amoco raft race on July 13.

The annual event for Amoco employees will start the night before with a dance and then Saturday morning the raft race starts.

One of the organizers Bob Chaisson, with Amoco, says they should have about 20 teams including some from their Calgary and Edmonton offices.

Hass in freak accident

Darryl Hass, from the ERCB office in Drayton Valley, had some problems on the way back to Drayton Valley recently.

Hass, returning from a family reunion in Saskatoon, was heading down the highway near Lloydminster when he was hit by a camper.

Apparently a gust of wind picked the camper off a truck going the other direction and dropped it onto his car.

The 1985 Nissan Sentra, only one-month old, received more than $2,500 damage in the accident.

Fortunately Hass was not hurt and the camper flipped over his car after hitting it. He spent the night in Vermillion and the next day his parents came and drove him into Drayton Valley.

PUBLIC NOTICE

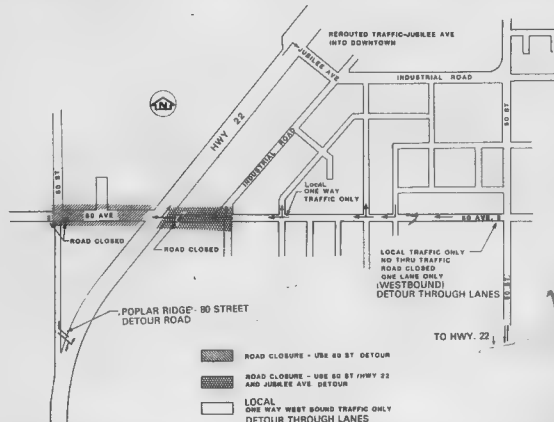

Town of Drayton Valley

Drayton Valley/Poplar Ridge Area Servicing and Roadway Improvements

As part of this project, a watermain will be installed along 50 Avenue from approximately 52 Street to 80 Street and 50 Avenue will be repaved and reconstructed from 50 Street to 80 Street. During this construction all but local traffic will be detoured. Local traffic will be restricted to one lane, west-bound traffic only. The detour route will require traffic accessing the Town to use either Jubilee Avenue or 50 Street and the use of back lanes. PLEASE FOLLOW DETOUR SIGNS AND SPEED LIMITS POSTED STRICTLY.

A detour road will be constructed at 80 Street and Highway 22 to allow access to and from the Poplar Ridge area while 50 Avenue is reconstructed between Highway 22 and 80 Street. The plan indicated provides the detour routing. Access to businesses will be maintained as best as possible during the construction.

All detour routes will be signed by the Contractor as well as possible to reduce confusion and motorists are advised to use either Jubilee Avenue or 50 Street during the construction period. Construction is not expected to be completed until the fall. Your co-operation for the duration of the project is greatly appreciated. We apologize for any inconvenience to the public and local businesses.

'Pre-election warm-up period'

Education policy maintains illusions of easy cures

By Cecil B. Dawkins

The new Alberta 'Policy on Secondary Education' released jointly by Premier Peter Lougheed and Education Minister David King recently, perpetuates the illusion that a solution to the problems of public education is just around the corner. The policy is good, but not that good! However, since we are already into the pre-election warm-up period, and harsh realities would be the worst sort of breakfast food to eat before the voters, that is not surprising. Indeed the subtleties of the action releasing the policy suggests that despite the lack of some critical detail there was significant political advantage to be gained from speeding its appearance.

On the same day that the policy was released, in its glossy magazine format, the premier also appeared on TV to announce his upcoming initiatives with regard to free trade with the United States. It may well be that the planks are being firmly laid in position across which they hope to see an army of voters cross to confirm the government's grip on power for a further five-year term.

The Secondary Education Policy in general encourages the hope that eventually higher educational standards will be the norm for all our high school graduates. There is more time and attention devoted to the core academic subjects. How this can be satisfactorily translated into programs for the less academically gifted remains to be seen. The narrowing of emphasis implied by the increase of time devoted to core subjects from the present 50 per cent to as much as 75 per cent is almost certain to make the school a more bookish place as well as hopefully increase student competence in these subjects. But how many will stay the course?

Politically speaking, these changes and other provisions should correct the public's perceptions of what is currently wrong with the schools, a perception which has already been somewhat cooled by the mere passage of time itself.

Key changes include:

- The current group 'B' option courses will be discontinued.

- The social studies program will be revised yet once more in order to increase the emphasis on history, geography and economics as the basic framework upon which citizenship education can be developed.

- A new Integrated Occupational Program will begin in Grade 8 as a way of providing a suitable secondary program for those who are experiencing difficulty in learning.

- The importance of vocational education was reaffirmed and stress placed on the need to develop wider accessibility through the use of modern electronic communications.

- There is a new emphasis upon acceptable standards of behaviour and a concern for the teaching of ethics and values. To this end a course on ethics will be developed.

- In keeping with the Charter of Rights and Freedoms there will be improved program offerings for students in French language and French immersion.

The Policy on Secondary Education as a whole responds to public pressure and in many ways corrects some of the more obvious failures of the current system of public education. Educational policy in the past has all too often been shaped by fads and trends of no lasting significance. This policy, acceptable and indeed laudable in the main, will need watching carefully so that weaknesses are detected and adjustments made. After all, politicians and polls do not perfect policy make!

RCMP may move for August 1 opening

The RCMP is aiming to move into the new building in Drayton Valley on the first day of August.

However, this is one time their aim could be off.

Staff Sergeant Les Bannerman said they really need a crystal ball to find the exact date to move in. He added the staff has a lottery going on the move-in date.

Between the inspections and bureaucracy, the actual date is uncertain, commented Bannerman.

Const. Tim Vatamaniuk also said Aug. 1 was the expected date "with crossed fingers."

The contractor will turn the building over to Public Works Canada when it is finished. Public Works will do an inspection followed by an inspection.

tion by a security team. After that, the building is reinspected by Public Works when it will be "turned over to our department," explained Vatamaniuk.

Manpower office may open in town

Canada Manpower may be getting up an office in Drayton Valley.

Joe MacLellan, executive director at the Pembina Educational Consortium, appeared before council last Thursday to report on his progress in getting Canada Manpower to open an office in Drayton Valley.

MacLellan told the town that the present proposal would see Canada Manpower come on a weekly basis. They are expected to establish an office Mondays in the Provincial Building.

MacLellan and town manager Manny Deep are scheduled to meet with Canada Manpower officials in Edmonton this week.

Fire department may get help

Help may be on the way for the Drayton Valley volunteer fire department.

Councillor Howard Olsen told council last week that a consultant is looking at a larger meeting room, storage area and hose-drying arm.

Olsen hinted to council that the expansion could mean moving the engineering department trailer at the back of the hall or even adding a second story.

The fire department presently work out of cramped quarters which hampers the effectiveness of their life-saving job.

Stickers for handicapped

Handicap persons in Drayton Valley are now eligible for 'free parking' stickers.

Councillor Claire Carefoot introduced the idea to council last week and after a couple of word changes, the idea was passed.

Now handicap persons can make applications at the town hall for a sticker that will be placed in their vehicle windows.

Carefoot's suggestion that parking stickers be made up and distributed to senior citizens and handicapped persons had been earlier rejected by the transportation committee.

Speaking on behalf of the transportation committee Councillor Howard Olsen said, "One concern was that the stickers would be hard to control."

"I don't see the problem," Carefoot explained.

A motion to include senior citizens was defeated 3-2 but when it was made to only include the handicapped, the motion passed.

Council News

Video bids

Council plans to ask Vicom for a more detailed video presentation. The town already has a bid from ITV and Vicom to supply prices on script writing and one-inch film which would be similar to ITV's bid.

Tucker price set

The town has established a price of $650,000 for anyone interested in purchasing the Tucker quarter.

Miner re-elected

Councillor Charlie Miner has been re-elected to a one-year term as president of the Yellowhead Regional Planning Commission.

Landscaping tender awarded

Clareview Landscaping, a division of Gensod Farm, has been awarded a $57,890 contract for the water supply line route landscaping project. A second bid in the amount of $81,890 was received from Land Tec Contractors Ltd.

Costly dog control

Council learned last week that it was costing approximately $82 to catch each dog. The transportation committee who has been looking at dog control measures, feel this amount is very expensive and want a more detailed report before making any further comments.

Extension of street lighting

The town's transportation committee is waiting for a reply from Parkland County over splitting the costs of extending street lighting from Woodland Chrysler south to the highway. The matter will be considered at budget time.

Changes to Industrial Road

The town is expected to take a serious look at changes to the 50th Street Industrial Road intersection at budget time. The transportation committee has recommended to council that the intersection at 50th Street and the Industrial Road be changed to a one-way with traffic flowing from the north onto Industrial Road. Before doing this, the town plans to talk to the Gulf station about approaches.

Carefoot scores cultural victory

Councillor Claire Carefoot scored a major victory for cultural groups last week.

The Drayton Valley town councillor had taken a tough stand against a $24,620 community recreation cultural grant earmarked for the municipal library.

With the entire cultural portion of the grant headed for the library, Carefoot asked a recent recreation board meeting about money for other cultural groups.

She got the answer she was looking for when council discussed the grant formula last week.

The town has applied for the $98,480 available through the grant.

Groups have until Sept. 1 to make application for the money.

If cultural groups, other than the library make application, town council will consider those requests.

"The only snag is that any group applying for funds must match their request."

"I realize that could be a problem, but at least the money is available," Carefoot stated.

Last week's council meeting learned that the town has already budgeted approximately $49,000 for the library. If they were to use the grant money they would be saving $24,620.

Public Notice

Pursuant to a Council decision, Lots 65, 77, 78, 79, 91 and 92, Block 66, Plan 792-1191 will be sold to the Drayton Valley Pentecostal Assembly for the intended use as a place of worship.

Objections to this sale of land will be received at the Town Office, 5149 - 51 Avenue, up until 2:00 p.m., July 17, 1985. All such objections must be submitted in writing to the attention of the undersigned.

Breton field day is Friday

The 55th annual Breton Plots field day and soils-crop clinic will be held Friday, July 5, 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Located one mile east of Breton on Highway 816 and one mile south, the Breton Plots are owned and operated by the University of Alberta.

Operated on difficult-to-manage grey luvisolic soils, the Breton Plots have been the site of on-going research since 1929.

The theme for this year's field day is Legumes in Rotations and for Green Manuring.

Talks begin at 10 a.m. with the topic "Nitrogen fixing by legumes" addressed by Perry Olson of Agriculture Canada in Beaverlodge.

"Effects of forage crops at the Breton Plots" will be tackled at 10:30 a.m. by Jim Robertson of the University of Alberta.

"Economics of the use of legumes" will be addressed at 11 a.m. by Robert Winchell of Alberta Agriculture in Barrhead.

General discussion is scheduled for 11:30 a.m. It will be followed by lunch, with food and beverages available from a Drayton Valley caterer.

A plot tour is scheduled from 1 to 3 p.m.

Amalgamation dropped

Town councils at Spruce Grove and Stony Plain have decided not to proceed with amalgamation plans. Both councils feel the consultant's report on possible amalgamation fell short of addressing certain areas.

Golf course construction starts

Volunteers are building a new nine-hole golf course at Swan Hills. Just how much work is done will depend on volunteer labor and contributions.

Bathtub races shortened

Gale-force winds shortened the Sylvan Lake bathtub races, but the weather didn't stop Steve Fagan of Nanaimo from repeating as the champ.

Indoor pool study underway

The town of Innisfail is looking at building an indoor swimming pool. But first they want to conduct a study levelled at children and seniors' needs in the community.

Painters nabbed

RCMP at Three Hills have nabbed four teenagers who spray-painted GRAD '85 on the walls of seven businesses. Damage has been estimated at $1,000.

Biathlon course is planned in Tomahawk

Interested county residents will have the opportunity to try out a new sport this summer.

Parkland County parks and recreation department will be offering two one-day introductory sessions in biathlon training, one in the east end of the county and one in the west.

The introductory sessions are tentatively scheduled for July 6 at Muir Lake and July 20 at Tomahawk.

Biathlon is a winter sport which combines cross-country skiing and rifle shooting in the prone and standing positions.

Athletes in the event ski a series of loops of varying length, depending on the age and sex of the participants, and return at the end of each series to a shooting range for a test of marksmanship.

Summer dryland training is carried out using roller skis.

The county's program will also include orienteering.

Barb Smith, parks and recreation board director, says money to purchase equipment and run the anticipated summer and winter programs has been provided through a grant from the Alberta Sport Council.

The council's mandate is to facilitate training in all sports. Grants were available through the council for local and regional innovative projects.

Smith told members of the parks and recreation board on June 3 the department hopes the summer programs will develop the interest in biathlon events and will lead to the formation of a club, the establishment of a facility and the training of athletes interested in entering biathlon competitions.

Bella Manningham (Kathy Wood) pleads with Inspector Rough (Ray Lainchbury) in the play Angel Street. The play was put on by the drama class at Frank Maddock High School last week.

Slowdown

The Drayton Valley and District Health Complex is going on its summer program, which means a slowdown in services.

Jim Jansen, executive director of the complex, explained they expect fewer health needs over the summer months which will allow staff to take their vacations.

"There will usually be about two doctors away at any one time," commented Jansen, adding there will be a reduction in services with that.

West Central Forage Association

Farm tour visits Wabamun project and Cormie Ranch

Cormie Ranch Wolverine.

Some areas can hardly support a crop while others will grow a crop up to a tall man's nose, but each has its own problems.

Members of the West Central Forage Association got graphic examples of this while on a tour of two major farms in the Wabamun Lake and Tomahawk area.

The tour took in the TransAlta Utilities reclamation project at Wabamun Lake as well as a look at the Cormie Ranch near Tomahawk.

At the TransAlta reclamation project, the tour was shown the "most unique land" in Alberta, said Malcolm Davidson, who is in charge of the project and describes himself tongue-in-cheek as a "well-off farmer."

"TransAlta has to return it (the land which has been mined) to an equal or better state than it was before," stated Davidson. Because he works for TransAlta, Davidson gets paid whether the crop is good or not.

At a field next to the Sundance power plant, the tour got out of the bus to look at the soil.

"It's really hurting for fibre," commented Davidson. The land has been growing two to three tons of alfalfa per acre, which is as good or higher than the rest of the area, but because of winter kill, "tonnage of crop is going down each year."

He explained there is mine spoil, the material taken out of the mines, covered by a few feet of subsoil with some top soil on that.

But, the mine spoil has nothing for plants to feed on and is basically dead, he said.

The team of two full-time and three part-time employees will be putting cereal crops on the land for the next few years to build up the fibre in the soil, stated Davidson.

However, all is not bad on the reclaimed land at Wabamun. There is one area Davidson described where on one side of the road they would only harvest 45 bushels. Yet the other side would produce 70 bushels.

In all, TransAlta takes care of around 7,000 acres of land, said Davidson. On the south side of Wabamun Lake, about 400 acres has been actively reclaimed from the mines, and another 1,500 on the north side of the lake has also been reclaimed.

Davidson stated about 60 per cent of the land TransAlta owns in the area is rented out to local farmers.

Another stop for the tour at the Cormie Ranch showed a completely different problem.

About 7,000 acres are sitting on Low Water Lake near Tomahawk.

Back in the 1920s, attempts were made to drain the lake so wheat could be grown. Now, there is two feet of sod over 20 feet of water and mud, said Bruce Cormie, who showed the tour around.

"You go out there and jump, you'll see the fence posts wiggle," he commented.

For seeding the watertop land, they use a broadcast seeder mounted on a Wolverine tractor. The Wolverine is a three-wheeled unit with large tires for good floatation. Cormie said floatation is a major concern with all the equipment used on that land.

In all, the ranch takes up about 14,000 acres, "or a little smaller than Edmonton," he stated.

The ranch went into farming in order to be self-sufficient, as well as make the land more valuable, Cormie explained.

For several years now, they have cleared new land to farm, about 150 acres per year have been cleared, he stated.

The tour also took a look at the barn which Cormie Ranch uses for its work on embryo transplants. The barn, which uses passive solar heating, has a second story office which is converted to a lab for the transplants.

Cormie said the transplant program is not a major one for the ranch, but added they do about 300 per year throughout North America. The ranch has other locations in addition to the lab on the ranch for transplants. These include Calgary, Saskatoon, and San Antonio.

Cormie said some of the transplants' advantages include cheap transportation and the natural immunity given to the calves by the recipient cows.

"Shipping live animals is foolish," commented Cormie.

The ranch has a bank of frozen embryos which can be sent anywhere in the world with great ease, he explained.

At the end of the tour of the ranch, Bruce Cormie told Laurel MacDonald, manager of the Association and organizer of the tour, to sign him up to the Association.

Meeting people

Booth counsellor is surprised by number of visitors

Carolyn Eckert likes her work.

The Frank Maddock High School graduate is in her second summer as a counsellor at the Drayton Valley Chamber of Commerce tourist booth.

"I like meeting people," Eckert explains about her job.

"People are quite pleasant. Besides telling visitors about Drayton Valley and area I find out a lot about where they come from," she added.

The Drayton Valley resident is surprised at the number of visitors who come through town.

"I didn't realize how many people travelled this way," she stated.

Besides the visitors, the chamber's tourist information booth has been handling a lot of inquiries from local people making arrangements for holidays.

People

"Most of the people want a road map and accommodation guide," Eckert says.

The booth is well stocked with Alberta information from all the zones, plus B.C. and Saskatchewan brochures.

When people come into the booth, Eckert answers all their questions and at the same time is busy promoting local facilities such as the Park Valley swimming pool and the nearby Brazeau Dam.

When she has some time on her hands this summer Eckert will be mapping out plans for her own future.

It will be off to Concordia College in Edmonton come September to start a career in teaching. She's just not sure at this time if it will be special education or early childhood.

The tourist booth will be open from 9 a.m. to 7 p.m. for the months of July and August as the tourist season hits its peak.

In Drayton Valley, the booth is located west of the Esso service station.

Council smokers light up

A four-hour town council meeting last Thursday was too much for the smokers to handle.

Due to the length of the meeting, the smokers on staff and council asked to have the 'no smoking' rule waived. Their wish was granted.

The council meeting was the longest this year as the councillors dealt with the regular business and also heard from five delegations.

Leaping Lipizzans

The world-famous Royal Lipizzan Stallion Show will perform Thursday evening, 7 p.m. at Lions Park in Drayton Valley. This outstanding performance is being brought to the area by the Drayton Valley Minor Baseball Association. The Lipizzan horse is considered the aristocrat, the royalty, the light and nimble dancer of the equestrian world as well as the serialist, with their spectacular leaps into the air.

Poet's Corner

A Special Friend
By Betty Bouck

I have a friend, his name is Jim.
He's tall and broad, strong and slim.
Has a hearty laugh and a happy smile.
He loves to visit for a while.

We see him walking in the town,
On the streets and up and down,
And in the coffee shop he stops,
There to everyone he talks -
Of things that happened way back when,
(he was just a boy back then.)

In a trailer now, he makes his home,
For ten years he has lived alone.
He cooks his meals and keeps his floor and dishes clean, and much, much more.

More perceptive than some who see,
Sometimes amazes even me,
That he can be so thoughtful, kind

This friend of mine, my friend who's blind!

THE WORLD'S GREATEST EQUINE EXTRAVAGANZA!

The D.A. Column

by Doug Walkey
542-5388

Last week I promised more information on calculating pasture rental rates, but this is more important. If you have a grasshopper problem you may not have any pasture to rent out!

Even the control of grasshoppers is not simple. Not only is it expensive, but it can be dangerous to both you and your livestock. You must use extreme caution when spraying or it may be the last thing you do!

When it comes to controlling grasshoppers we have one major advantage, our weather. We have several different 'hoppers native to this area, but none of them have more than one lifecycle per year. We can thank long, cold winters and short summers for that small blessing.

Grasshoppers overwinter as eggs. Eggs are laid in late summer or early fall. The success of these eggs determines the success of next year's 'hopper population. Simply put, we can blame this year's outbreak on last summer's weather. Remember the warm, dry August that was just perfect for grasshopper egg-laying?

Rain and cool weather this year won't affect the 'hoppers, but it may have an effect of next year's hatch.

In areas where grasshoppers are a regular problem, farmers inspect their fields in late fall for egg pods, and in spring for nymphs and young adults. Experts tell us you should spray if you find 13 'hoppers per square metre or more. Less than that will actually cost you more in time, fuel and chemical than the damage done by the bugs.

Ideally you should spray 'hoppers when they are about one-third of an inch (6-8 mm) long. By this time most of the 'hoppers will have hatched and the nymphs are small enough to prevent their traveling very far. Spray headlands, fences, sloughs, and waste areas around your field or you are missing vast numbers of grasshoppers, too! Chemicals to control grasshoppers are also complicated. Be careful because they all have an effect on the crop as well as the 'hoppers.

They are also poisonous. Use good common sense as well as coveralls, respirators and rubber gloves! We are talking very dangerous!

Here is a listing of some of the more common chemicals for 'hopper control. Some of them (like Decis) can't be used on forages or crops to be used as greenfeed or straw because of crop residues. Others, like Cygon, can have as much as a 28-day wait before grazing if you use them. These are very serious chemicals so READ THE LABEL!

NAME	INGREDIENT	APPROX $/ACRE	COMMENT
BOWLEER	Carbofuran	$2.00	crops, pasture, hay
CYCON	Dimethoate	$1.50	crops, pasture, hay
MALATHION	Malathion	$4.50	crops, pasture, hay
DECIS	Deltamethrin	$8.75	crops only*
LORSBAN	Chlorpyrifos	$5.50	crops only

More information on these chemicals and how to apply them is available at my office. The 'Guide to Crop Protection in Alberta' has just been updated. It includes herbicides, insecticides and fungicides. This is necessary reading for 1985.

Questions and answers about pectin, jams and jellies

By Bev Brooks
District Home Economist

For many, homemade jams and jellies are a special addition to a meal or snack. It won't be long before many fruits are available for preserving into jams and jellies. It's therefore, time to start thinking about the procedure involved.

Following are some common questions and answers regarding jams and jellies. If you run into a question not answered here, give me a call and hopefully there will be a solution.

Q. What is pectin?

A. Pectin is a natural substance found in most fruits, which causes the cooked fruit or juice to gel. Pectin is also available commercially in liquid and powdered form. Many people use it because it takes the guesswork out of jam and jelly making.

Q. Can I substitute liquid pectin for powdered pectin (or vice versa)?

A. No. These two products are not interchangeable. You can, however, reconstitute powdered pectin to a liquid form. Combine one box powdered pectin and three-quarters of a cup of water. Bring to a boil and boil one minute. Use this in place of a half bottle of liquid pectin.

Q. Does it matter how ripe fruit is for jams and jellies?

A. Jam or jelly made with over-ripe fruit may not set since both pectin and acid decrease as fruit ripens. For best results, use about three-quarters just ripe and one-quarter slightly under-ripe fruit.

Q. What can you tell me about the new product from General Foods called Certo Light?

A. Certo Light is a type of pectin that can be used to make jam with one-third less sugar, and more fruit than traditional jams. Currently five kinds of jam can be made with Certo Light: strawberry, raspberry, plum, peach and pear. More recipes are being tested this summer.

Q. Can honey be used to make jam or jelly?

A. Yes, but there may be distinct changes in flavor, particularly if a strong-flavored honey is used. For the best results, use a combination of honey and sugar. Use honey to replace up to one-quarter of the sugar in jelly, and up to one-half of the sugar in jam.

Q. Can I double jam or jelly recipes to save time?

A. No. When large quantities are used, it will be necessary to boil the mixture longer, thereby causing darkening and loss of flavor. It is recommended that no more than six to eight cups of juice be used at one time.

Q. How much wax should be poured on the jam or jelly?

A. A thin layer (0.5 cm or three-sixteenths inch) is best. Rotate jar so paraffin seals well all around the edge.

Q. Why do instructions always say to melt wax over hot water?

A. Wax is flammable and melting over direct heat could cause it to burst into flame.

Q. My jelly/jam is too soft and runny. Is there anything I can do for a remedy?

A. Yes. There's a method of re-boiling the jelly/jam with a few added ingredients which will ensure a set product. Phone me if you have this problem.

The Wild Rose Rodeo Association travels north to the Peace River Country this weekend for the annual Teepee Creek Stampede Friday through Sunday.

The Foothills Cowboy Association has a busy month with stops at Buck Lake July 12-13, Cadest July 13-14 and Dog Pound on the 17th.

Performances at Buck Lake are scheduled for 6 p.m. on Friday and 1 p.m. Saturday. The rodeo also features pony wagons and chariots.

There's lots of good camping spots at Buck Lake.

The Bighorn Appaloosa Club show will be held July 19-21 at the Panee Memorial Agriplex in Hob-nema.

Entries close this Saturday. For more information call Bonnie Keirle at Winfield (682-2420).

A lot of people in our area either host horse shows or travel to shows out of the area. But, for some unknown reason, they don't let us know.

If you're connected with a horse show or have just returned from a show, let us know how you fared.

Congrats to The Western Review's Lorne Christensen for the article last week on Kathy Harker. Keep your eye on this young lady as she appears to have a bright future.

Capricorn in third quarter

Time has come to wean children and animals

The moon is in the earth sign of Capricorn and in third quarter, decreasing.

This is the time to cut timber and get rid of surplus plant growth. Trim hedges and cut lawns to decrease growth. Move roots or pot house plants.

Wean children and animals.

If you have money to invest it is well to remember that Capricorn rules the knees and knees are used for climbing up in the world. Buy antiques or property on speculation with worldly gain as your object.

July 4-6 will find us in the futuristic air sign of Aquarius when humanitarians surface. If your lunar cycle project is giddy-goody or do-gooder in nature, it should move ahead by leaps and bounds now as it reaches maturity in third quarter.

Permanent waves and hair-coloring are favored.

Then celebrate your new hairdo by throwing a party.

If your teeth are bothering you have them filled now. You can be sure the dentist will suggest the latest methods at this time.

In the garden, pull weeds and get rid of bugs.

July 7-8 will find us still in third quarter but in the fruitful water sign of Pisces. A time to enjoy the fun-side of life. Let your imagination run free and enjoy escapist activities to the hilt. Carnivals and fairs and trips to the beach will return us all to the wonder and joy of childhood.

In the garden, you can still move roots. Re-pot house plants.

Water and apply organic fertilizers or spread manure.

Prune trees and re-shape hedges.

July 9 we move to fourth quarter and July

9-11 will find us in the dry, barren sign of Aries.

Pull weeds. Cut down any trees or shrubs that you want to get rid of. Destroy insect and animal pests, too. Set out fly baits and mouse traps.

Cultivate with the idea of getting rid of weeds and worms.

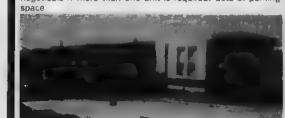

Fourth quarter is like report card time. If your first quarter idea worked out, you will start to reap harvests. Recognition, sales, compliments, or just the deep down feeling that you have done well.

If the idea didn't work out, no matter. You have failed but you can repeat the grade next cycle or you can discard it for something completely different.

A. MEIER REAL ESTATE

Tel. 542-4744, 542-5062

Fourth quarter is the happiest and saddest of times.

Aries is a sign that rules the head so be careful not to injure yours. Wear hard hats and protective goggles.

Animals may be docked, dehorned or castrated.

Start a reducing diet now and your pounds should decrease with the moon.

Whose lucky week is it?

Until July 28 our most fortunate sign is Pisces with the luckiest of all having birthdays between March 6 and 13 until fourth quarter occurs the 9th, after which the luckiest have birthdays between March 14 and 20. The lucky number to remember in all money ventures is four.

Important days this week

July 3 Dog Days begin. These are the hottest days of summer when "every dog had his day" before the fridge was invented. Meat went bad frequently and got thrown to the dogs.

The dog-star, Sirius, which rises concurrently with the sun from July 28 to Aug. 11, is credited with the great heat of Dog Days.

THE WESTERN Review

ROCKHOPPER

Palker Stevenson plays Nick Larabee, code name Rockhopper, an up-and-coming agent for the National Security Agency, who attempts to make contact with a defecting Russian outer space laser weapon expert, on "Rockhopper," airing TUESDAY, JULY 8 on CBS.

SECOND SIGHT: A LOVE STORY

Elizabeth Montgomery stars as an independent blind woman with a strong-willed seeing-eye dog. She finds her resistance to emotional involvements being broken down by a man for whom she is beginning to have strong feelings, in "Second Sight: A Love Story," airing SUNDAY, JULY 7 on CBS.
